

Name: _____

Date: _____

Directions: Decide whether the statement is a fact or an opinion.

Hint: Facts are things, situations, events, behaviors that you can see, taste, touch, smell, or count. Opinions or personal ideas cannot be counted, measured or observed with any of the five senses.

Example: The garbage stinks. Fact
The government stinks. Opinion
This school stinks. Can't tell, but probably an opinion

Statement: Circle the correct letter. F = Fact O = Opinion
(One or more sentences could have both a fact and an opinion.)

1. F O Dilbert walked into the pizza shop.
2. F O Dilbert had a $10 bill in his pants pocket.
3. F O "This shop makes the best pizza in the world," Dilbert thought.
4. F O "A super-large pizza costs $14.00," said the counter clerk.
5. F O "But, I only have $10.00," said Dilbert.
6. F O "Our tiny, mini-pizzas are just as good," said the counter clerk.
7. F O The counter clerk thought that Dilbert was wasting his time because he was poor.
8. F O "The tiny, mini-pizza costs $9.99, with tax," said the clerk.
9. F O "How much will I get back?" asked Dilbert.
10. F O The counter clerk also thought that Dilbert was stupid.
11. F O "You get one penny back, any dummy knows that," said the counter clerk.
12. F O "What size do I get with this upgrade coupon?" asked Dilbert.
13. F O "I don't know, let me see the coupon," said the clerk.
12. F O "This coupon lets you buy a large pizza for the price of a tiny, mini-pizza," said the clerk.
12. F O The counter clerk thought that Dilbert wasn't so stupid, after all.
